

Custom Residence Newton, MA

This renovation and addition to a 1920's Tudor style home was designed to accommodate the client's request for a seamless transition between old and new. An old porch was enlarged to create a large, sunny, informal family room adjacent to the formal living area. The outdoors were brought in through the implementation of large windows and tall patio doors. A new master suite was created on the second floor, incorporating the best of the existing features and extra amenities.
